other points within the Bethesda district, he complained to the Interstate Commerce Commission. Following this complaint came the action before the Commission and now the decision which bears the date of April 3, 1911. On the technical point that unjust discrimination has been practiced by the company Mr. Shoemaker has won his suit. He will not, however, reap the fruits of victory except in the most academic sense in the world; for the telephone company, although ordered by the Interstate Commerce Commission to cease and desist from the discrimination complained of by Mr. Shoemaker, has not been adjudged guilty of overcharging or of making a ty of overcharging or of making trate to the complainant which was unfair. The company is now ordered to cease its discrimination. That is to cease its discrimination. That is all. The result of the order is the enforced vacation of the existing $24 contracts and the $18 contracts, and the inclusion of the thirty-seven old subscribers of the Somerset exchange under the rates now charged to all the other subscribers of the Cleveland exchange. In other words, no body wins anything except the telephone company, and, after July 15, 1911, the unlucky thirty-seven will have to pay the full city schedule of $48 per annum for unlimited service, or $35 per year for limited party line service.

A greater gospel mission to meet the demands of a greater field, was the key-note to the addresses by prominent misworkers and gational Ch ur o h last night, when appeals were made for the maintenance of the new Gospel Mission. Occupant of the executive concluded an active day of services under the auspices of the mission workers. George W. Wheeler, president of the executive committee of the Gospel Mission, presided, while Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Woodrow, pastor of the First Congregational Church, welcomed the mission workers, highly commending the work of the local mission in rescuing and reuniting the broken and destitute families of the streets.

ing the broken and destitute families of the streets.

Following Dr. Woodrow's address, the reports of the officers of the mission were read, showing what work the mission had done in the District during the year, such as the saving of 115 souls, the feeding of 20,000 hungry men in its bread line, providing supper to 5,000 men, lodging to 18,000, work for 290, and so on through a list, each item of which told for itself the field of work that is yearly growing larger.

Stress was brought to bear on the need of $500 for additional fire-escapes on the new building, $500 for a heating plant, development of the work. Over $500 was realized through collectors, while several persons made large individual subscrip

It was this work, he said, that the rescue workers are now endeavoring to do, not destroy ing liquor itself, but the conditions upo ing liquor itself, but the conditions upon which the traffic thrives.

Miss Ruth Angel, of the Hebrew Christian Mission of New York City, won the sympathy and good will of her audience by her unaffected appeal for the Jewish converts in her district, to whom she paid a high tribute. She also spoke in commendation of the work of the Washington missions, and wished the workers of the gospel missions all success.

Miss Sara Wray, superintendent of the Eighth Avenue Mission of New York City, and Mrs. H. E. Monroe, of the executive committee of the Gospel Mission, also spoke. Mrs. Monroe told of the struggles of the mission, and impressed upon the congregation the great field of work in Washington, which compared favorably with other cities.
